Flaccid paralysis is an illness characterized by weakness or paralysis and reduced muscle tone without other obvious cause (e.g., trauma). This abnormal condition may be caused by disease or by trauma affecting the nerves associated with the involved muscles. For example, if the somatic nerves to a skeletal muscle are severed, then the muscle will exhibit flaccid paralysis.

A few days ago, NBC's show TODAY spent five and a half minutes talking about vaccines. But they didn't talk about vaccine safety studies and how they aren't held to the same standard of other medicines. They didn't talk about the revolving door between vaccine manufacturers and government entities. They didn't even talk about why the CDC vaccine schedule has increased exponentially ...
