A film transition is a technique used in the post-production process of film editing and video editing by which scenes or shots are combined. Most commonly this is through a normal cut to the next shot. Most films will also include selective use of other transitions, usually to convey a tone or mood, suggest the passage of time, or separate parts of the story.

Dark Wood The dark forest--selva oscura--in which Dante finds himself at the beginning of the poem (Inf. 1.2) is described in vague terms, perhaps as an indication of the protagonist's own disorientation. The precise nature of this disorientation--spiritual, physical, psychological, moral, political--is itself difficult to determine at this point and thus underscores two very important ideas ...

Lost Light by Michael Connelly Review by David White. I've been saying since Angel's Flight that Michael Connelly is the best author writing today. He's willing to shake up his series character, LAPD detective Harry Bosch, and allow us to see him in different ways. In A Darkness More Than Night, we got to see Harry from the perspective of Terry McCaleb, Connelly's other series character, who's ...

Around age 40, women's bodies begin perimenopause, the transition leading to menopause (the point in time when you stop menstruating permanently). The hallmark of this transition is a change in the levels of the hormones estrogen, progesterone, and the androgens. Yet this is not solely a physical event—it is also the biggest opportunity for personal growth and empowerment since adolescence.

Television in the United States - The year of transition: 1959: As noted above, the period that ran roughly between 1948 and 1959 is referred to by many historians and scholars of the medium as the "Golden Age" of television. As TV became established as the country's premier mass medium, however, network executives began operating under a philosophy known much later as "least ...
